

HKTVMall Increased the Number of eTruck

HKTVMall's first electric delivery truck officially commenced service in 2024, becoming Hong Kong's first electric truck with three temperature compartments. In 2025, the fleet of e-trucks was expanded to 16.

The electric truck not only has zero tailpipe emissions, helping reduce greenhouse gas emissions, but also outperforms diesel trucks in terms of cooling speed, operating costs, and operational efficiency. Its cooling speed is 30% faster than that of ordinary diesel trucks. That means it saves more energy and further improves efficiency.
